DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Rosas et al. Rosas et al teaches moving part (46,62, etc), elastomeric valve 16 that abuts and seals against a sealing part 22. Valve 16 includes plug-in structure that receives a tip of the moving part (fig. 1).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 2-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Rosas et al in view of Heyland. To include stop means for the valve of Rosas et al for limiting valve movement for better valve control and durability would be obvious from Heyland (58,60) which teaches stops for control of the valve. Relative to claim 3 note 60 of Heyland as an alternative to stops 58 which abut the flexible diaphragm.

Claims 8-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Rosas et al in view of Hoobyar et al. The formation of valve structure at the tip of a moving shaft as to enclose a gap is taught by Hoobyar et al for forming a "living" or flexible seal structure which self adjusts as to seal surfaces. Valve is considered as elements 31, 66a,66b and associated bellows design which encloses a gap between 83 and valve body 127 while abutting the body 137 (fig. 2) which serves the same purpose as attaching the valve to a core as recited by claim 9.

Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Rosas et al in view of Cross et al. The placement of a spring (25) between relatively moving parts is taught by Cross et al and would be obvious to utilize within Rosas et al for better valve sealing and/or prevention of valve chatter.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 5 and 7 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

E-F are cited as further teachings including stop members of valves and spring use.
